DETAILED ACTION

Specification

- [01] The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.
- [02] The disclosure, including the abstract & specification, is objected to because it is replete with grammatical errors. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Objections

- [03] Claims 1 & 7 are objected to because of the following informalities: --a capsule endoscopy-- is grammatically incorrect. Claims 6 & 11 refer to --the digest tract--, commonly referred to as --the digestive tract--. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

- [04] The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

- [05] Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Fujita et al. (2003/0085994), published 8 May 2003.
- [06] With regard to claim 1: Fujita discloses a capsule endoscopy system ("capsule type endoscope device 1," [0047]), adapted to transform an image of a digestive tract into an image data and to transmit the data, comprising:

- [07] a capsule endoscope ("capsule type endoscope 3," [0047]), having a first transceiver ("antenna 23," [0049]), wherein the capsule endoscope is adapted to capture an image of the digestive tract and to transform the image into the image data ("image-pickup element 17," [0051]);
- [08] a data recorder ("external unit 5," [0058]), having a second transceiver ("antenna 11," [0058]), a third transceiver ("connector 30," [0059]) and a memory ("hard disk 29," [0058]), the second and the third transceivers coupled to the memory; and
- [09] an image processor ("terminal device 7 such as a personal computer," [0048]), wherein the first transceiver of the capsule endoscopy transmits the image data to the second transceiver of the data recorder, which is stored in the memory and transmitted to the image processor by the third transceiver.
- [10] With regard to claims 4 & 7: The image processor disclosed by Fujita inherently has a fourth transceiver, adapted to receive the image data transmitted from the third transceiver, which enables it to "capture into a terminal body 9 an image stored in the external unit 5" ([0048]).
- [11] With regard to claims 2 & 8: Once initialized, the first transceiver disclosed by Fujita sends continuous signals to the second transceiver.
- [12] With regard to claims 3, 5 & 9-10: Fujita discloses a trigger ("control circuit 34," [0058]) which enables transmission between the third and fourth transceivers.

- [13] With regard to claims 6 & 11: Fujita discloses a display ("monitor portion 8c," [0048]) coupled to the image processor for displaying the image of the digestive tract.

Conclusion

- [14] The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Adler (2004/0258328), Cho (2004/0106849), D'Andrea (2003/0191430), Yokoi (2003/0171653) & Frisch (6904308) all disclose capsule endoscopes which transmit data.
